

KIT, the Royal Tropical Institute of the Netherlands

KIT is working with several institutes where CDS/ISIS is installed. Recently we have worked together with the National Museum of Suriname. The National Museum has a collection of museum items and a library and information center. We developed a system for registering museum objects integrated with registration of library holdings. This integration was done by customizing the CDS/ISIS program to these needs. By making this application the museum could now offer the option to the visitor to search both the museum collection and the library collection in one action. KIT could be interesting for a lot of information centers that have functions for both a exposition center and a library.
